Excerpt: . . . but resemblances of this kind are inevitable in the early work of most musicians. The similarity, at any rate, is not imitative; and the Caedmar, as a whole, youthful as it was, bore great promise for English opera. Mr. Bantock worked in this line for some time longer, under the fond delusion that the British public was more receptive towards native opera than it really is, and put much good work into his Eugene Aram, the overture of which was once performed in London. But disillusionment came to him as it has come to so many others; and he has laid aside the unfinished opera till brighter days shall appear. WILFRIED KLAMROTH Teacher of Singing in all of its Branches RICCARDO MARTINS OPINION: He has the real secret and knows how to teach it. Studio, 11 1-2 West 37th Street--NEW YORK Are most apparent...
